

EDITOR THE STAR: I read in your paper a few days ago concerning the livestock industry in Hempstead county, pertaining to the organizing of some kind of society for the protection of our livestock from thieves.

I am much interested in this movement, and am willing to do my part in getting this committee working. Hope you may get this plan in action soon. I. E. ODOM
March 20, 1951
Fulton, Ark.

SHOULD EXPLAIN that there are no immediate plans, as far as I know, to set up a cattlemen's association in Hempstead county or southwest Arkansas.

What appeared in this column was merely an idea — and not even the idea originated here. Vincent Foster, of Hope, called me some time back to report there was an increase in cattle stealing through this area and some of the cattlemen thought it might be the time to launch an association. Foster figured if somebody shoved real hard we might get the organization going.

Well, I shoved, and Mr. Odom has written a letter. But that's all, as far as I know.

However, the pattern of a cattlemen's association is well known, both from the Western movies and the actual experience of some of the cattle operators who've recently moved in here from New Mexico and other Western ranch regions.

The association registers brands, helps recover stolen cattle and aids in prosecution of rustlers — hiring special agents where necessary. Sounds melodramatic, but really it's no more than a trade association, like yours and mine — and perhaps it is true local cattlemen got together.

Demands Grow for Special Session

Little Rock, March 21 — (AP) — More school districts have announced they'll close early this year for lack of funds.

And more organizations and individuals have asked Governor McMath to call a special session of the legislature to tax additional school revenues.

McMath has declined to say whether there's any possibility he'll accede to the requests. He said yesterday he'd received more than 1,000 letters and telegrams asking for a special session.

The requests included a resolution adopted by a mass meeting at Dermott, which voted to raise money by subscription to complete a nine-months term in the Dermott district. At least two statewide organizations previously had asked the special session: The American Association of University Women and the Arkansas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Schools in five Jefferson county districts are planning to shut down one to two months early. Officials of other districts said they'd be able to keep schools open by spending reserve funds.

Greenbrier schools, which had planned to stay open to May 30, will close May 2.

Forrest City is trying a voluntary tax which residents hope will be able to keep schools there open for a full nine months. Booneville hoped to finish out a full term by using some surplus funds.

At least four Hempstead county districts announced they'd be forced to close at end of eight months.

And the Monette schools will be able to operate eight months only because some $6,000 was raised by public subscription. Monette officials had feared schools there would have to close Friday.

Airport Ruled Out as Cadet Training Site

Hope city council last night was told that the municipal airport is definitely "out" as a possible training field for air force cadets, due mainly to the expense which private contractors would have to stand to ready the port for a training field.

The report was made by letter by Charles A. Armitage, who along with Vincent Foster and Walter Baber attended a conference last month called by air force officials in Dayton, Ohio.

The war department's policy has changed completely. Everything now is done by private contractors with the air force only supervising. The group found that it would take from $750,000 to $1,000,000 to bring the Hope airport up to air force requirements.

Here are some of the requirements:

Enlarge the 22,000-square-foot hangar to 75,000 square feet; build and additional runway; building runways at three airports within 30 miles of the local field and equip each with radio; build barracks to house 500 cadets; construct a 30-bed hospital; a mess hall; recreational facilities; provide houses for 1,200 civilian personnel — all this with profits limited to 7 per cent.

This was confirmed a month later when Armitage, Foster and George Peck investigated the requirements in Washington. The group also discovered there were no plans to take over any of the old Southwestern Proving Ground.

Six Hempstead Men Leave for Armed Services

Airforce enlistees who left yesterday for active duty were announced today by Sgt. Short as:

Sgt. Short also announced that any senior desiring an audition with the Barkdale Airforce Band or Army and Navy Band at Hot Springs should contact him prior to April 1 at room 102 in Hope City Hall.

Two Vehicles Are Damaged in Crash

A car driven by Grant Davenport of Hope crashed into another which had stopped behind a school bus about 5 p. m. yesterday near Davis Courts, east on Highway 67.

The impact knocked a new car, occupied by Harry J. Lurkin of Paw Paw, Mich., into the backend of a truck owned by L. M. Funderburk of Nashville.

Nobody was hurt but both cars were badly damaged. City officers Mosier and Compton investigated.

The foundation, a memorial to the late Arkansas poet, is described as a non-profit, benevolent association dedicated to establishing a scholarship and prize fund for excellence in literature and art. It was created by close friends of Fletcher, who died last year.

Tokyo, March 21 — (AP) — The Chinese Communists have withdrawn their control of front-line areas of Chunchon, battlefield reported Wednesday night.

Chunchon is 1-1/2 miles south of parallel 38. It was the major Chinese headquarters and supply base in South Korea.

On the east coast South Korean units were officially placed within 8-1/2 miles of the old border between North and South Korea. The Chinese Communists apparently have reached or crossed the imaginary line.

AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported from the south front that United Nations troops were unopposed by the vanishing enemy. He said armored patrols were probing the area between main Allied lines and parallel 38.

Earlier reports placed American units five miles south of Chunchon.

From Eighth Army headquarters AP Correspondent Leif Erickson reported: "In pulling back from Chunchon, the Chinese Communists apparently have withdrawn their main forces back north of the 38th parallel."

On the east-central front, American artillery and planes decimated a small enemy concentration forming for an attack northwest of Paju. About half the 200 Reds were killed.

A British general told Eighth Army correspondents the Reds had not regaining the initiative in Korea. Lt. Gen. Richard Nall, Cale, director general of training in the British army, said the British forces are slowly and methodically pursuing their own course.

He did not say whether the Allies planned to cross the politically significant border, but British troops in the Eighth Army would carry out any orders given them.

Erickson reported fresh Chinese troops were digging in on the western front north of Seoul. This indicates the Reds are trying to slow down or halt the Allies' advance up the center by putting themselves in the middle of the front.

The hearing was expected to be long and hard fought.

The $10,500,000 project, which also includes 544 miles of transmission lines, is being opposed by four private utilities, which late yesterday were joined in their objections by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL).

Costello, a 60-year-old Costello returns to the witness stand when the senate committee opens the grand finale to its New York hearings.

Costello appeared only briefly yesterday afternoon after O'Dwyer wound up his second day of testimony.

Costello, reportedly underworld chieftain, again declined to reveal his "net worth" to the committee, although threatened with a contempt citation.

However, he was more talkative about his political ties, and said he knew 14 district leaders in Tammany Hall, the Mutual Democratic organization.

But it was O'Dwyer who dominated his affairs.

Hendrickson's announced stand with the position of the senate Republican policy committee, which has called for rejection of the reorganization plan and liquidation of RFC.

The house GOP policy committee took the same stand, but the house refused to go along with a move to block the proposed reorganization.

Actually, a majority of the house members voting disapproved of the RFC reorganization plan. But the law under which Mr. Truman proposed it requires a majority of all members — 49 in the senate, 218 in the house — for rejection of a reorganization move. The house vote was 18 short.

Then, as he played with a paper clip, he acknowledged naming Frank Quayle as fire commissioner and James J. Moran as first deputy fire commissioner, while he knew 14 district leaders in Tammany Hall.

First, the graying ex-mayor, now ambassador to Mexico, said Costello had been a "sinister influence" in Tammany Hall for many years.

DOROTHY DIX

Contrary Husband

Dear Miss Dix: I am married to the most stubborn, contrary man on earth. How can you get along with a husband with this kind of dna? I have tried gentleness, patience, fighting, being mean myself, but nothing does any good.

DISGUSTED WIFE

Answer: Of course, one would like to say that the best way to treat a contrary man is to hit him over the head with a coffee pot, but unfortunately women lack the physical strength to enforce such an argument against contrariness. Besides, with effective cleverness, it discourages such primitive means of family discipline.

All that is left, then, for the woman who is married to a man with a mulish disposition is to treat him as she would any other donkey who hasn't sense enough to do what is right and proper, but who has to be taunted along the way he should go.

Let Him Suggest It

Begin by letting him think that he has suggested everything that you want to do. If you want to have the parlor papered in green instead of purple, don't rashly say that you are going to have green or your donkey will put his foot down and declare for purple. On the contrary, gently and insidiously suggest the idea of green paper and, when you perceive that the time is right, ask him what color he would prefer to have the parlor papered. He will say green and berate you for not having thought of it yourself.

Avoid all arguments as you would the pestilence. A argument with a contrary man is like a mordant that stains a dye and makes it indelible.

If he says black is white, let it go at that and he may forget what opinion he expressed and recognize white for the color it is. But if he ever commits himself that black is white he will stick to it in the end of time.

Of course, the less sense a man has the more amenable to flattery he is and the easier he is to work, so there is nothing for the woman who is married to a contrary man to do but to get busy with the saw and plaster him over daily with fulsome compliments.

If she tells him how big and wise and strong and wonderful he is and how she defers to his judgment in every particular, he will let out of her hand and she may do with him as she will. Some women can do this some can't. Some do not think it worth while and as a matter of fact, it isn't worth any sensible woman's trouble to humor such childish weakness, for such a man makes her very, very tired.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I have been married for fifteen years and have two lovely children. I have always been good and faithful wife and mother, a thrifty and economical housekeeper and have done my duty the best I know how. But in all the time we have been married my husband has never taken me anywhere for pleasure. When he is home he always nags me about how much money I spend. He never gives me any extra money for clothes. I havent pinch the household money for weeks to get a pair of shoes. He always swears at me and calls me terrible names. He has never brought me a gift of any kind. And just these little things mean so much to a woman. What should a wife do under the other at-large entry, and University of Washington (22-5) of the Pacific Coast taking on Texas A. and M. (17-1) of the Southwest conference.

The two opening nights will feature favorites of contrasting styles of play. Both Kansas State and BUY are exponents of the fast break. Henry (Hank) Iba's Oklahoma Aggies, who also get a nod from the point-makers in the opening round, and Texas A. and M., coached by John Floyd, play the more deliberate, ball control game. Floyd learned his basketball as a player under Iba.

Fair Enough

When Charles E. Wilson bawled after the sulking miners that no group of self-interested racketeers would be allowed to foul up his effort to organize war production, he came closer to honest defense of the corruption of unionism than any other national public officer in 20 years. Mr. Wilson then hustled down to Key West to explain to Mr. Truman.

Since then a group of money banks in congress, unable to face the evidence that our unionism is a criminal racket imposed on some fifteen million American citizens, have been haggling for a compromise to let the labor-fakers muscle back into the government.

There are no leaders of labor in the United States. Not one of those who pretend to speak for "labor" dares to submit to a fair, popular vote, because he would be thrown out and repudiated.

An overwhelming majority of the subjects of these brutal old fakers never had a chance to vote for or against unionism. An honest referendum on that question undoubtedly would reduce the voluntary membership to a mere skeleton of organization. Many big union concentration camps like the United Mine Workers, the teamsters and the musicians would vanish because the "members" are faceless robots.

speak as bargaining agents for "labor"?

John L. Lewis is a bull-dozing old tyrant who burbles long words in the ludicrous manner of the old-time black-face minstrel. He talks about "union democracy" but holds about 20 per cent of his 400,000
"members" in voiceless subjection which make up the United Mine Workers are controlled by Satraps appointed personally by Lewis.
Scarcely more than one-fourth of the 400,000 miners are allowed to vote, and Lewis nevertheless forgets this lead-pipe clutch by reserving the right to count the ballots.

His rule is slightly less fascistic than Hitler's and Mussolini's were, but he has shown that he is capable of bearing down as hard as

The terrible massacre at Herrin, Ill., as savage as maligned, began soon after a telegram came from Lewis advising his ignorant blood-thirsty subjects to treat members of a rival union as strikebreakers.

After a night of desultory shooting, a spokesman for Lewis' crowd accepted the surrender of the besieged men, promising them safe conduct. Most of the prisoners were unarmed soon afterward. The captives were told to run for their lives. Twenty-six American workmen were killed. Two, who briefly got away, were hanged when they were caught and their bodies were riddled with bullets.
Six more were dragged by a rope behind a car, then shot by firing quadr.

Lewis quickly stepped in disclaiming blame. In a sanctimonious telegram which belied the sublimate mood of his vicious followers in Herrin, Lewis said the United Mine workers were shocked and "greatly deplored" the massacre. He said "sinister influences" had inflamed "our members."

His character has not changed since that bloody day in Herrin nor will it ever. Under the patronage of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the management of Lewis in collaboration with Communist contractors against the integrity of the United States, the C. I. O. waged a campaign of riotous insurrections which terrorized several western states, set at naught their constitutional governments, and produced, by this process, the present congress of industrial organizations. Acts of treason against state governments were copious in this reign of terror.

Philip Murray and William Green, presidents, respectively, of the C. I. O. and A. F. of L., are former subordinates and assistants of Lewis. By the normal exercise of his autocratic tyranny, he threw them both out of the United Mine workers for opposing him. Murray is a whining old hypocrite who makes a great show of pietism. He was a willing servile associate of Lewis, as long as Lewis wanted to make use of him.
Leon Pressman and Harry Bridges, the one a confessed Communist,
the other a proven communist, were two of Murray's own principal lieutenants until communism became politically inexpedient. He never was elected to the presidency of the C. I. O. by vote of the members but fell into the job after Lewis pulled out in a political disagreement over Roosevelt's third term. Lewis had no honorable objection to the third term.
But he did object to Roosevelt.
He held Roosevelt in contempt as an effeminate slob.

Green is a faker without discount. He knowingly sat in the council of the A. F. of L. with George Browne, a revolting crook, and quit the job.

No Decision on Drafting Students

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 21.—(AP)— There's still nothing definite about the plan proposed by selective service to give high school graduates draft-deferment for college if they can make 70 in a special test.

This plan was disclosed last week. Since then selective service has said nothing about it. Nor has it offered even an explanation of what is meant by "70" or test.
This is an attempt to give an explanation, obtained from a completely reliable source other than selective service.

It's generally agreed that some youths should be deferred from the draft so they can complete their education in college and because of this country's continuing need for a supply of college-trained men.

At present, under the draft law, only men 19 through 25 are draft-able and many of those in school have had their induction postponed because they're in school.

But congress at this moment is considering changes in the law, perhaps to permit drafting of youths as young as 18 or 19 years. Final congressional decision on this hasn't been reached.

Under the law the President can lay down rules — it's called issuing a directive — about deferment of youths, such as those in school.

For many months many educators have been working with Maj.
Gen. Lewis B. Hershey and his selective service people to find some fair and reasonable system for deferring men who want to go to college or are in.

Brain and willingness to work in school are the two main factors, N. S. Hershey proposed that high school graduates be deferred for college if they can make 70 or more in a special test.

(Once they were in college, their continued deferment under this proposal would depend on their standing in their class.)

Hershey sent his recommendation to Charles E. Wilson, boss of mobilization, who serves under Wilson and is chairman of Wilson's special board on manpower policy.
This board is made up of top government officials.

This board will meet Thursday to consider Hershey's recommendation. It probably will approve, if so, Wilson seems sure to approve.
He'll tell Mr. Truman so Mr. Truman can issue an order putting it into effect.

But the President at this time may put only part of the Hershey recommendation into effect. That's the part providing for deferment of men already in college or graduate schools.

Why? Because congress hasn't acted finally on changing the law.
For example: If it should let the law stand — that no one under 19 can be drafted — there'd be no reason to require a high school graduate under 19 to take the special test.

That's why it is still uncertain whether this part of Hershey's recommendation will be ordered into effect by Mr. Truman if he issues his directive on the rest of the Hershey recommendation any time soon.

But just what is this mark of "70"? Is it an intelligence test or an aptitude test, or what? Experts in other way, but this is the layman's explanation:

At first, Jean did most of the talking. It was a great happiness for her, she told Tim, to see him out of the wheel chair. Now, she intimated, they could be together often in New York. That is, she smiled, if he wished it.

Then, before he had opportunity to question her, she shrewdly sought to divest his mind of any doubts or suspicions he might have had. She had been so busy on her return to New York, she explained, she had not had a single minute to write or telephone.

The business of getting home had thrown her into complete confusion, and, on top of that

Deals With State Workers to Be Curbed

Little Rock, March 21—(UPI) Arkansas Purchasing Agent Carl Parker won't deal hereafter with any company in which anyone connected with the state government has a financial interest—unless and until Attorney General Ike Murry tells him it's legal to do so.

Parker served notice to that effect yesterday in asking Murry for an interpretation of the currently effective state purchasing law—Act 214 of 1943.

And he made it clear he's concerned mainly about persons whose connection with the government is comparatively slight members of honorary boards and commissions.

He cited 13 instances, asking in each whether his office could make purchases from a named firm.

In all except one, a part owner or official of the firm is a member of a state board or commission.

The exception is the Adkins-Phelps Feed company, North Little Rock, in which former Gov. Homer M. Adkins is a partner. Adkins also is director of the state employment security division.

Act 214 of 1943 forbids "any officer, agent or employee of the state" from having an interest related to the state.

Parker asked for an early opinion, saying he wanted to start preparation of April 1 purchase contracts by Friday.

The Parker request, contained in a three-page letter to Murry, came as a temporary bill was called in an investigation into alleged tampering with act 214 of 1943, which the recent legislature passed to replace act 214.

The law enforcement committee of the Pulaski County Grand Jury, which has been looking into reported illegal revision of the vote on act 242's emergency clause in the Arkansas house, said it was recessing so testimony already taken could be transcribed.

The committee said it had satisfied itself that the vote on the emergency clause was changed to show that the clause was adopted, although actually it was defeated.

A successful emergency clause would have made the bill effective immediately upon being signed by the governor, rather than after a 90-day lapse. It also would increase difficulties of opponents of the new act, who'd already announced they would seek by petition to have it held up until it could be voted on by the people.

Act 212 would prohibit state officials or agents from dealing only with departments they represent.
